El Valor de Posesión (VP) es una métrica que estima la probabilidad de que un equipo marque un gol en los próximos 10 segundos mientras tiene el balón. Cada acción con la pelota —un pase, un regate, una pérdida— puede aumentar o disminuir esa probabilidad.

Por ejemplo, si un jugador recibe el balón en el medio campo (VP = 1%) y tras una buena jugada lo lleva hasta el área (VP = 13%), se considera que su acción aumentó en un 12% las chances de gol para su equipo. Ese incremento se llama Valor de Posesión Añadido (VP+).

Esta métrica también tiene en cuenta el contexto: no todas las pérdidas de balón se castigan igual. Si un jugador pierde el balón en una zona ofensiva pero la jugada genera peligro, puede seguir sumando positivamente.

En resumen, el VP permite evaluar la contribución real de cada acción en el campo, más allá de si termina en gol o asistencia, y ayuda a identificar qué jugadores realmente hacen avanzar al equipo.
